Puppy Parties

Puppy Socialisation

The first 16 weeks of the puppies life are what is known as the "Human Socialisation Period". This is the time when you need to really introduce your puppy to as many things as possible. Learning at this age is permanent so this is a perfect time to start training.

This is also the ideal time to introduce the puppy to things that will play an important part in his/her life. The puppy should be handled gently and positively by different people especially children.

You should go to strange places, meet other animals, road noises, trains, buses, and the hustle and bustle of the outdoors. You can also introduce various sounds such as the vacuum cleaner, washing machine, and lawn mower, All these new sounds should be introduced in a positive, non-threatening way.

Puppy Parties at Aireworth Vets

Aireworth Vets would like to invite you and your puppy to come to our puppy parties. These parties give your puppy the chance to interact with other puppies of a similar age. Interacting with other puppies helps your puppy feel comfortable around other dogs of different shapes and sizes.

What Happens at a Puppy Party?

Aireworth Vets puppy parties are largely informal with no set training sessions or itinerary The puppy parties are hosted by one of our qualified veterinary nurses and they will cover a range of puppy related topics such as:

- Flea & Worm Prevention
- Diet
- Travel
- Socialisation
- Toilet Training
- Positive Re-enforcement
- Lead/Harness Training
- Neutering
- Identichipping
- Vaccinations

The puppy parties are a course of 3 meetings running approximately 45 minutes long. In the parties the puppies meet and greet each other and the qualified nurse will go through a selection of the topics mentioned but will also be available for more specific questions you may have about puppy care.

How do I Join a Puppy Party?

To join simply contact reception, they will need a £10 deposit to secure your booking. We will be happy to book your puppy in so long as your puppy is:

5 month or younger

&

Fully vaccinated

After you & your puppy have attended all 3 sessions your puppy will be awarded a goodie bag and a £10 gift voucher, redeemable on any product/service available at the practice.
